

RESPECTING EACH OTHER

Social Skills for Success

March 2019

SUPPORT FOR EVERYDAY ISSUES. EVERY DAY.

Workplaces contain a variety of personalities and communication styles. However, being able to interact well with others is essential for success. Developing strong interpersonal skills will allow you to form healthy relationships and improve work productivity.

This program provides confidential counseling, resources and referrals to help you improve workplace relationships.

WEBINAR

Interpersonal Communication:
Social Skills for Success
Available on March 19

This session will help participants understand how their verbal and non-verbal communication may be interpreted by others. These skills are crucial to grow positive and effective working relationships.
